WHERE NEW YORK'S POPULATION IS GROWING MOST RAPIDLY
Manhattan Is Moving North, With its Most Congested Block Above 100th Street—Upper Harlem and Washington Heights Show Biggest Percentage of Gain—Nationalities Shifting From Lower East Side.

Perhaps the time has passed when any New Yorker will exclaim to know intimately his city. That was one of the reasons why the city was so much admired by the Yankees. Mr. Philip, in his review of the city, said they had not looked at it yet. He was passing through it at night and was awed by the lights, the crowds, the noise, the music. Mr. Philip leaned against a fence and said, "What a wonderful city!"

Harlem was the main part of the city that was destroyed. It was a block of 100 acres. The houses were all gone and the streets were deserted. People were leaving the city, and the streets were empty.

Further north than that was another interesting part of the city. The largest group of people in Harlem were on the upper west side, as near as the river was to the Blackstone. The river was a big help to the neighborhood.

When you got into Harlem, you were in a different world. There were no people, no noise, and no excitement. You could hear the sound of the river and the streetcar whistles.

In the next district, you were in a more urban area. But it was not as exciting as Harlem. There were more people, more noise, and more excitement. You could see the buildings, the streetcars, and the streetlights.

In the next district, you were in a more industrial area. There were more factories, more people, and more noise. You could see the smokestacks, the buildings, and the streetcars.

In the next district, you were in a more rural area. There were more farms, more people, and more noise. You could see the farms, the trees, and the streetcars.

In the next district, you were in a more suburban area. There were more houses, more people, and more noise. You could see the houses, the trees, and the streetcars.

A report of the future of New York was made by a United States Senator. He said, "New York will be a city of 10 million people in 10 years."

In the next district, you were in a more rural area. There were more farms, more people, and more noise. You could see the farms, the trees, and the streetcars.

In the next district, you were in a more industrial area. There were more factories, more people, and more noise. You could see the smokestacks, the buildings, and the streetcars.

In the next district, you were in a more urban area. But it was not as exciting as Harlem. There were more people, more noise, and more excitement. You could see the buildings, the streetcars, and the streetlights.

In the next district, you were in a more rural area. There were more farms, more people, and more noise. You could see the farms, the trees, and the streetcars.

In the next district, you were in a more suburban area. There were more houses, more people, and more noise. You could see the houses, the trees, and the streetcars.

In the next district, you were in a more urban area. But it was not as exciting as Harlem. There were more people, more noise, and more excitement. You could see the buildings, the streetcars, and the streetlights.

In the next district, you were in a more rural area. There were more farms, more people, and more noise. You could see the farms, the trees, and the streetcars.

In the next district, you were in a more suburban area. There were more houses, more people, and more noise. You could see the houses, the trees, and the streetcars.

In the next district, you were in a more urban area. But it was not as exciting as Harlem. There were more people, more noise, and more excitement. You could see the buildings, the streetcars, and the streetlights.

In the next district, you were in a more rural area. There were more farms, more people, and more noise. You could see the farms, the trees, and the streetcars.

In the next district, you were in a more suburban area. There were more houses, more people, and more noise. You could see the houses, the trees, and the streetcars.

In the next district, you were in a more urban area. But it was not as exciting as Harlem. There were more people, more noise, and more excitement. You could see the buildings, the streetcars, and the streetlights.

In the next district, you were in a more rural area. There were more farms, more people, and more noise. You could see the farms, the trees, and the streetcars.

In the next district, you were in a more suburban area. There were more houses, more people, and more noise. You could see the houses, the trees, and the streetcars.

In the next district, you were in a more urban area. But it was not as exciting as Harlem. There were more people, more noise, and more excitement. You could see the buildings, the streetcars, and the streetlights.

In the next district, you were in a more rural area. There were more farms, more people, and more noise. You could see the farms, the trees, and the streetcars.

In the next district, you were in a more suburban area. There were more houses, more people, and more noise. You could see the houses, the trees, and the streetcars.

In the next district, you were in a more urban area. But it was not as exciting as Harlem. There were more people, more noise, and more excitement. You could see the buildings, the streetcars, and the streetlights.

In the next district, you were in a more rural area. There were more farms, more people, and more noise. You could see the farms, the trees, and the streetcars.

In the next district, you were in a more suburban area. There were more houses, more people, and more noise. You could see the houses, the trees, and the streetcars.

In the next district, you were in a more urban area. But it was not as exciting as Harlem. There were more people, more noise, and more excitement. You could see the buildings, the streetcars, and the streetlights.

In the next district, you were in a more rural area. There were more farms, more people, and more noise. You could see the farms, the trees, and the streetcars.

In the next district, you were in a more suburban area. There were more houses, more people, and more noise. You could see the houses, the trees, and the streetcars.

In the next district, you were in a more urban area. But it was not as exciting as Harlem. There were more people, more noise, and more excitement. You could see the buildings, the streetcars, and the streetlights.

In the next district, you were in a more rural area. There were more farms, more people, and more noise. You could see the farms, the trees, and the streetcars.

In the next district, you were in a more suburban area. There were more houses, more people, and more noise. You could see the houses, the trees, and the streetcars.

In the next district, you were in a more urban area. But it was not as exciting as Harlem. There were more people, more noise, and more excitement. You could see the buildings, the streetcars, and the streetlights.

In the next district, you were in a more rural area. There were more farms, more people, and more noise. You could see the farms, the trees, and the streetcars.

In the next district, you were in a more suburban area. There were more houses, more people, and more noise. You could see the houses, the trees, and the streetcars.

In the next district, you were in a more urban area. But it was not as exciting as Harlem. There were more people, more noise, and more excitement. You could see the buildings, the streetcars, and the streetlights.

In the next district, you were in a more rural area. There were more farms, more people, and more noise. You could see the farms, the trees, and the streetcars.

In the next district, you were in a more suburban area. There were more houses, more people, and more noise. You could see the houses, the trees, and the streetcars.

In the next district, you were in a more urban area. But it was not as exciting as Harlem. There were more people, more noise, and more excitement. You could see the buildings, the streetcars, and the streetlights.

In the next district, you were in a more rural area. There were more farms, more people, and more noise. You could see the farms, the trees, and the streetcars.

In the next district, you were in a more suburban area. There were more houses, more people, and more noise. You could see the houses, the trees, and the streetcars.

In the next district, you were in a more urban area. But it was not as exciting as Harlem. There were more people, more noise, and more excitement. You could see the buildings, the streetcars, and the streetlights.

In the next district, you were in a more rural area. There were more farms, more people, and more noise. You could see the farms, the trees, and the streetcars.

In the next district, you were in a more suburban area. There were more houses, more people, and more noise. You could see the houses, the trees, and the streetcars.

In the next district, you were in a more urban area. But it was not as exciting as Harlem. There were more people, more noise, and more excitement. You could see the buildings, the streetcars, and the streetlights.

In the next district, you were in a more rural area. There were more farms, more people, and more noise. You could see the farms, the trees, and the streetcars.

In the next district, you were in a more suburban area. There were more houses, more people, and more noise. You could see the houses, the trees, and the streetcars.
WHERE NEW YORK'S POPULATION IS GROWING MOST RAPIDLY

The Sky Line of New York City as It Looks Today.

(The continuation from preceding page)

In our "advance sheet" innovation, I hope to see it adopted as a permanent feature.

"There was a woman on our force of whom we were very proud. She had an indomitable habit of work and she wanted to work. She distributed valentine cards through the city, gathering them all up, and she was an excellent worker. It gave her an extra boost, but the enumerator had no leads. She was my sister-in-law, who was a stenographer and who was suffering from an illness. When she was brought in, we had to send her to the hospital, and she was brought back again using a wheelchair. She was still laying in the hospital, and we had to send her home again.

"Another was a young man who we had to send away from the office due to illness. We had to send him to the hospital, and he was still laying there when we came to work the next morning. He was suffering from a severe cold, and we had to send him home again.

"Mostly it's work. There was a special census in 1910, and we had to send everyone to the hospital. We had to send them home again, and we had to send them back to work the next day.

"In one of the houses of that city, there were two rooms. One room was a single room with six children and an invalid husband, who was suffering from paralysis. He was so moved by their destitution that he remarried, and he was moved to send the children to some institution. The single room was soon to be found anywhere else in the city.

"The enumerator who found them was one of the few who had been successful in this work. He was moved by their destitution and he remarried during the census.