THE WAYS IN WHICH MEN ESCAPE FROM SING SING

Green's Success Was Due to Congestion of the Prison—How Roehl and Pallister Escaped—A Rush the Usual Method.

E
capsulate from prisoners at by the way. When the delivery of a package is made to any of the men in the cell room, the warders are called to the door, and the package is handed over to them. The package is then opened and the contents are examined by the warders. If any contraband is found, it is seized and the warders are instructed to report the matter to the authorities. The warders are also instructed to report any suspicious activity or behavior by the prisoners.

The diagram of the escape at Sing Sing shows the arrangement of the prison and the paths that the prisoners took to escape. The escape was planned and executed with great skill and ingenuity, and the prison authorities were taken by surprise. The prisoners were able to make their way through the prison walls and escape unnoticed, thanks to the confusion caused by the overcrowding of the prison.

The Warder's Room at Sing Sing. All of the furniture was made by prisoners.

The story of the escape of the two prisoners, Roehl and Pallister, is told in detail in the New York Times article. The prisoners were able to make their way through the prison walls and escape unnoticed. The escape was planned and executed with great skill and ingenuity, and the prison authorities were taken by surprise.