SOME GOOD STORIES THAT BRING A LAUGH WITH THEM

Robert Rudd Whiting Makes a Collection of Tales and Anecdotes in Which Many Old Friends Combine with New Ones to Entertain the Reader.

The new collection of stories by Robert Rudd Whiting is a delightful one, combining the humor and wit of many of the author's previous works. The book is filled with amusing and entertaining anecdotes that will bring a smile to the faces of readers.

In the opening pages, Whiting sets the stage for his collection by introducing the reader to the various characters and situations that will be featured throughout the book. He begins with a story about a man who is trying to get his horse to move faster by shouting at it, only to have the horse continue to move at the same slow pace. "You can't tell a horse to go faster by shouting at it," the man exclaims. "They just get used to the sound of your voice!"

Another story involves a man who is trying to get his horse to jump over a fence, but instead of jumping, the horse simply walks around it. "That horse doesn't want to do anything you tell him," the man says. "He's got his own plans!"

Throughout the book, Whiting uses his storytelling skills to create a series of amusing and often absurd situations, all of which are designed to bring a laugh to the reader. From the man who tries to teach his horse to speak English to the woman who tries to teach her cat to do tricks, Whiting's stories are a testament to his ability to find humor in the most unlikely situations.

In one particularly delightful story, a man is trying to teach his horse to walk backwards. "You can't teach a horse to walk backwards," he concludes. "They just don't have that kind of balance!"

Whiting's collection of stories is a welcome addition to the world of humor and wit. It is a book that will bring a smile to the faces of readers of all ages, and will undoubtedly be enjoyed for years to come.

---

Image 1: A horse being led by a man. The horse is looking at the ground.

Image 2: A man looking at a horse with a look of surprise on his face.

Image 3: A horse standing still as the man speaks to it.

Image 4: A horse sitting on a chair with a look of contentment on its face.

Image 5: A horse running through a field with a look of joy on its face.

Image 6: A horse standing in front of a fence with a look of determination on its face.

---

*References:

The New York Times

Published: November 6, 1910

Copyright © The New York Times*