Games and Playthings Pretty Much the Same the World Over—Dolls of the Ancients—A Santa Claus in Japan.

It may be said that the origin of games and toys dates back to the time of the Egyptians and Greeks. There is not much difference between the way they played and the way we do today. The ancient Egyptians played with the same toys that we do, only they were made of wood or clay.

The dolls of this different time are quite unlike ours. They were made of wood or clay and had no clothes. The clothes that they wore were made of cloth or leather.

In Japan, a country which is far away from Europe, the dolls are made of wood or clay and have no clothes. They are used for the purpose of showing the children how to dress for certain holidays.

A Japanese Santa Claus.

A Doll of Ancient Greece with Handkerchief Thrown Over Head.

Toys, Like Christmas Trees, Are Used in Japan All the Year.

It is said that the children in Japan use toys all the year round. They use them to play with and to keep themselves entertained. They use them to show their friends how they are growing and how they are learning.

The Japanese Santa Claus is supposed to be a doll of gold and silver and gold. He is used to give presents to the children. He is dressed in a gold and silver suit and has a golden bow and a golden ribbon around his neck.

The Japanese Christmas tree is a branch of a pine tree that is decorated with lights and ornaments. It is set up in the middle of the room and is decorated with lights and ornaments. It is used to give presents to the children.

The Japanese New Year is a time when the children play with toys. They play with them all day long and have a great time. They are the happiest children in the world.