THE DOCTOR WHO KILLED HIS PATIENTS WITH GERM

For the First Time the Full Story Is Told of How the Russian Physician Panchenko Poisoned for Hire and How His Boasts of His Crimes Led to His Downfall.

By HERMAN BERNSTEIN

March 2, 1911

The story of Dr. Panchenko, the Russian physician who murdered his patients for hire, was told for the first time in full detail in the New York Times. The doctor was caught in a plot to murder a former patient, and when he was caught, he confessed to his crimes. He was later tried and convicted of murder.

Panchenko was a well-known doctor in Russia, and his patients included some of the wealthiest and most powerful men in the country. However, he was also known for his criminal tendencies, and he had a reputation for being a sb, or a person who would do anything to get what he wanted.

The police caught Panchenko in a plot to murder one of his former patients, and when they did, he confessed to his crimes. He said that he had been hired by a group of wealthy men to kill their enemies, and that he had carried out the murders as part of his job.

Panchenko was convicted of murder and sentenced to life in prison. He is currently serving his sentence in a prison in Siberia, where he is a model prisoner and a model for other prisoners.

The story of Dr. Panchenko is a警示 of the dangers of greed and corruption, and the importance of justice. It is also a reminder of the strength and determination of the human spirit, and the fact that even in the darkest of times, there is always hope for a better future.

The end.