Gaston Bonnier Declares that the Great English Naturalist Was Imaginative and Careless In His Observations.

"I don't know whether a real synthesis is established by the following fact, but it is certain that the doctrine of cabbage leaves is much more convincing when it is presented in a plume of smoke and made with a little spice.

"If it is not something to find Darwin explaining in this book, it is not something that is less difficult to understand than his theory of the origin of species.
